POLICY

If a student repeatedly demonstrates inappropriate behavior which is not directly attributed to the handicapping condition the Superintendent, or designee, may request that suspension proceedings be initiated by the student's home district.

The Wood County Board of Developmental Disabilities has no authority to expel any student under 22 years of age placed by the local education agency. Expulsion involves a change in placement and can only be considered appropriate when an interdisciplinary team recommends a change in placement.

A procedure for the suspension of any student, shall be developed and implemented by the Superintendent or designee.
